NATIONAL AWARD IN MUSIC

Since 1951 the Board of Governors has offered national awards to Canadians who have made distinguished contributions over a period of years to the development of the arts in Canada. Originally, awards were presented annually in each of the areas of literature, painting, music, and related arts. However, since 1961 the awards have been rotated. This year's recipient is Glenn Gould for his outstanding contribution in music.

Glenn Gould studied piano, organ, and composition at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto from 1943 to 1952. His professional debut was at the age of fourteen with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, and he has performed in concert throughout the United States as well as Germany, Israel, and the Soviet Union. Gould's own compositions include a string quartet, twelve-tone piano pieces, and "A Letter from Stalingrad," written for soprano, Lois Marshall. He also provided the music for the 1972 film, Slaughterhouse Five. The author of Arnold Schoenberg: A Perspective, Glenn Gould has contributed articles to Saturday Night and Saturday Review.

The award will be presented on Friday, 9 July, but Gould will not be present. David Leighton, Director of the Banff Centre, will accept an engraved gold medal on his behalf.

HOUSING REGISTRY REOPENS

The Students' Union Housing Registry, a free service to landlords and students designed to assist students in finding accommodation, has reopened in 280 Students' Union Building. The need for housing is obvious but vacancy rates are extremely low; in the University area, for example, the vacancy rate has dropped from 0.2 percent last April to approximately 0.1 percent at the beginning of June. In early June, the City Housing Registry had six applicants for each vacancy. The need for housing will become more serious when approximately 5,000 new students enter University in the fall. The purpose of the Students' Union Housing Registry is to attempt to lessen the difficulties students will face in finding accommodation.

Homeowners and landlords who have accommodation available are asked to telephone the Registry at 432-4212. These accommodations will then be incorporated in the Registry's daily booklet which is distributed to students at five locations on campus: the Lister Hall Main Desk, the HUB Office, the Foreign Students' Office, the SUB Information Desk, and the Registry Office. Students then select possible accommodations, contact the landlords, and negotiate personally.

The Registry is designed to be complementary to the housing facilities operated by the University; in fact, the Registry will advertise vacancies in Lister Hall, the only residence with vacancies. The majority of mature students, however, prefer other types of accommodation and the Registry is there to serve the needs of those students primarily.

For further information about the Students' Union Housing Registry, telephone 432-4212.

For further information, get in touch with Judi Harder in 236 General Services Building, telephone 432-3625.

SUMMER HOURS AT GRAD HOUSE

As of 17 June, the hours of summer operation of the Grad House, 11039 Saskatchewan Drive, were changed. Sales of liquor, beer, and wine are from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., with closing time at 8 p.m., on both Thursdays and Fridays. Also, "barbecue-your-own" steaks will be available for $1.50 on both evenings, weather permitting.

BRETON PLOTS FIELD DAY

On Friday, 9 July, the Alberta Department of Agriculture and the Department of Soil Science will hold the Breton Plots Field Day. The Breton Plots are located about 70 miles southwest of Edmonton. They are located on nitrogen- and sulphur-deficient Gray Luvisolic (Gray-Wooded) soils. Some of the plots have been in operation since 1930, and they demonstrate the effects of fertilizers and crop rotations on soil productivity; several recent, short-term experiments are also underway. The theme of this year's field day is "Forages on the farm." Everyone is welcome to attend and hear the lectures and go on the tours of the plots. Further information can be obtained from the Department of Soil Science.
